Profile

Mary-Louise Clark

Mary-Louise is a Ranmore Associate and works as a workshop designer, facilitator, coach and trainer.

Mary-Louise graduated from Cambridge University and worked as an actor and singer for the National Theatre, Royal Shakespeare Company, in the West End and in theatres throughout Britain, the Netherlands and Germany. She also ran her own practice as a vocal coach and worked extensively as a role player.

Since 2000 she has designed and delivered coaching and training in her specialist area of Communication Skills and Personal Impact. She is also an Associate of the National School of Government and worked for them on the Developing Top Management Programme, Advanced Leadership Programme and currently the Aspiring Leaders Programme.

Her clients come from right across both the public and private sectors and include Marks and Spencer, Roche Products, UBS, Beazley, the Cabinet Office, NHS Executive, HMRC, DH, BBC, UKPS, Foreign Office, BERR, DCSF, DCMS, HMCS, DIUS and Cadbury Schweppes.

Since 2004 Mary-Louise has been a member of freelance facilitation team for futurefocus (cross Whitehall neutral creative thinking facility situated within Department of Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform). She specialises in encouraging people who need to have difficult conversations to do so in a safe environment- this could include parts of Government with differing agendas, business or their representatives.

Mary-Louise is also a facilitator for the iLab at the University of Essex. Her facilitation experience also includes running national stakeholder engagement groups and conferences for the Department of Health. She also runs creative team building sessions.
